Measuring leadership diversity in listed companies

Global Women CEO follows women chief executives of listed companies around the world, by region, country and sector, and measures how leadership diversity evolves over time.

The project builds on the WOMEN CEO index family created with IFRC for Vietnam in 2013 and later extended to Singapore and the United States: rule-based indexes of companies led by women, with transparent methodologies.

Why it matters

Data, indexes and an annual review help investors, companies and policy makers follow progress and integrate governance diversity into ESG analysis.
